Pull the "keys" outwards against the spring to release the latches and gently pull the radio forwards as you do so. You can put a screwdriver down each pair of holes in the keys so you can release all four latches together or do the bottom ones first and then the tops (not letting the bottoms click back in as you do the tops).

I prepared a modification for the on-board computer for the MAN TGX Euro6 by Madster, similar to the appearance of the interface to that of facelift vehicles. The modification also changes the appearance of the radio from the one with navigation to the radio interface, as in the MAN TGX vehicles. The entire interface is in English now and includes:
